THE INFLUENCE OF MURABAHA, MUDARABA, MUSHARAKA, AND IJARA FINANCING ON PROFITABILITY
(Study on PT Bank Jabar Banten Syariah Year 2011-2014)

ABSTRACT

Islamic bank is a financial institution that shall perform the functions of collecting and distributing public funds. Fund distribution activities conducted through financing. The financing is divided into four transactions, namely buying and selling transactions, profit sharing transactions, lease transactions, and lending and borrowing transactions.

This research was conducted at PT Bank Jabar Banten Syariah, or also known as Bank BJB Syariah. The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of murabaha financing (margin revenue murabaha), mudaraba financing (sharing revenue mudaraba), musyarakah (sharing revenue musharaka), financing ijara (lease revenue ijara), on Bank BJB Syariah's profitability (return on assets).

The test results showed that simultaneously financing murabaha, mudaraba, musharaka and ijara financing affect the Bank BJB Syariah's profitability. Partially murabaha financing affects the profitability, mudaraba financing affects the profitability, musharaka financing affects the profitability, and ijara financing does not affect the profitability.
