About GSTF

Global Science & Technology Forum (GSTF, www.globalstf.org) is dedicated to promoting research and development and offers an inter-disciplinary intellectual platform for top notch scientists, researchers, academics and industry professionals in Asia Pacific to actively consult, network and collaborate with their counterparts across the globe. The result is to facilitate an environment of continuous innovation, publication and technopreneurship. The various program and technical committees of GSTF constitute distinguished scholars and industry leaders/professionals around the globe who have an established track record in their respective areas of research and professional specialization.

To achieve its mission, GSTF holds year around initiatives including annual conferences in partnership with leading academic institutions/universities around the globe as well as workshops in partnership with industry leaders and research centres, and publishes academic conference proceedings, research journals as well as industry newsletters.

Our continuing mission is to be a premier Centre of Excellence offering an inter-disciplinary platform for research, innovation, publication and collaboration at a regional and international level and to recognize outstanding scholarly and professional contributions of individuals and organizations.
