ABSTRACT

CSR changes the company's orientation not only to the economy but also to social and environmental contributions. This study aimed to determine the effect of profitability and leverage on CSR disclosure. The hypothesis of this study is whether profitability and leverage have a significant impact or not on CSR disclosure partially or simultaneously. The data used is secondary data, with purposive sampling obtained from 8 companies.

The results showed that profitability had no significant effect, and leverage significantly impacted CSR disclosure. Simultaneously the independent variable affects the dependent variable. Therefore, CSR disclosure is appropriate in stakeholder theory and legitimacy theory.
